

WE NOMINATE

William Arthur Lewis, one of the long-visioned economists of his time and a major factor in the continuing rise of Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, who at a time of crisis in hemispheric affairs has been tapped for an assignment of transcendent importance to his native Caribbean Area. Effective next July 1, on leave of absence from Princeton, this 55-year old educational statesman will start devoting full time to the presidency of the newly-founded Caribbean Development Bank with headquarters in Barbados.

As first president of the Caribbean Bank, which will function in much the same manner as its sister agencies, the Asian and African Development Banks and the Inter-American Development Bank, Sir Arthur (knighted in 1963 by Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain) will be returning to the region he has served with distinction throughout his career. For instance, when called to Princeton in 1963, Lewis was in his fourth year as Vice-Chancellor of the University of the West Indies and, among other sensitive positions, had been Special Adviser to the Prime Minister of the West Indies following the abrupt dissolution of the long-planned West Indies Federation.

Proof positive of the respect Lewis commands in higher education — both in this country and across the seas — was the impact of the provocative talk he gave last spring before the annual dinner of the Princeton Community's Elizabeth Taylor Byrd Fund that enables black high school graduates to continue their education. Adapted as an article under the title of "Black Power and the American University" in the spring issue of "University: A Princeton Quarterly," it was reprinted in its entirety by "The New York Times" Sunday Magazine, was syndicated throughout the world and was then featured in an incredible variety of publications, including "Reader's Digest."

In stressing that "the goals and tactics of black power in America have to be readjusted to the reality of America," and that the road to the top is through higher education, it was Lewis' thesis: If we (the blacks) enter them (the integrated colleges) "merely to segregate ourselves in blackness, we shall lose the opportunity of our lives. Render homage unto segregated community power in the neighborhood where it belongs, but do not let it mess up our chance of capturing our share of the economic world outside the neighborhood, where segregation weakens our power to compete."

A member of the prestigious American Philosophical Society, chancellor of Guyana University (South America) and holding honorary degrees from universities on three continents, Lewis, a native of St. Lucia, B.W.I., was educated in the Universities of London and Manchester. A decade (1938-1948) as Lecturer at the former was followed by a decade as Stanley Jevons Professor of Political Economy at Manchester and a stint as Deputy Managing Director of the United Nations Special Fund. The author of several classics, ranging from "The Theory of Economic Growth" to "Politics in West Africa," he has been a consultant to several African governments and is called by a colleague "the best known American black in Africa."

For his understanding of economic, political and social change in the emerging countries; for his achievements as first incumbent of Princeton's distinguished James Madison Professorship of Political Economy, for temporarily relinquishing his responsibilities here in the hope of strengthening the region he knows and loves so well, he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

THAT SHOPPING CENTER
Traffic Changes Proposed.
Blocking off both of the present Harrison Street entrances to the Princeton Shopping Center and opening a new one-way
pattern of exits and entrances is one of the proposals in the five-point traffic study of the Center that will be discussed
Tuesday by the new joint Planning Board.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall. The Shopping Center traffic study will be discussed in the public session.

The survey was begun last year by a committee under former Township engineer Frank Quinby. A representative from the Traffic Safety Bureau of the state's Bureau of Motor Vehicles, worked closely with the Township
group during the survey.

The completed study was sent to the Department of Transportation and also to the Township's Traffic Safety Committee, and these two had its conferred on last December.

Other recommendations:

• Entrance ends to the center from Terhune. None exits on Terhune at present.

• Relocated parking inside
the center with bumper block to separate parked cars from moving cars, curbing, pedestrian islands, a walkway around the entire Shopping Center complex.

• Improved landscaping and lighting.

• A reverse traffic loop around Terhune and Harrison. A driver who is going east on Terhune and wants to turn north on Harrison would have to make a complete u-turn before style loop before he could head north.

• Traffic Safety also want a one-way pattern of circulation within the Center.

Implementing these recommendations could present quite a traffic snarl on its own.

For example, any Terhune exits and entrances would have to cross a no-man's land strip of land north of the Bamber
garage parking lot, which George Warnecke, owner of the Center, has claimed is not part of the Center itself.

Also, who's going to pay for all this? The Township believes that under a 1968 state law,
Mr. Warnecke would be required to do the improvements in side the Center and be billed for them. The law covers the regulation of vehicular and pedestrian traffic in parking
places open to the public.

However, Mr. Warnecke and Princeton Township have a record of meeting one another in court, so drivers should not expect to find these new entrances on next week's shopping list.

MAIL SLOT: The black rectangle shows the location of the proposed new post office building on Harrison Street
North. (1) is the Princeton Shopping Center, (2) Opinion Research Corporation, (3) American Can, which is almost out of sight, away from the street, and (4) Gallup and Robinson, also set back from Harrison.

Township Mayor John D. Wallace said the state may install a traffic light at the Terhune-Road intersection.
That traffic light, the state has already said, will be the signal for the Township to close off Valley Road permanently at Route 206, thereby diverting cross-Township traffic to Terhune Road.

Mayor Wallace points out that state time tables sometimes stretch the calendar,
and it may be considerably late
than summer before the sign is turned on. But the eventual closing of Valley Road is still in the Township's plans.

EWING

Jug-handle Progress. Half a dozen property owners on the west side of Route 206 at Ewing and north (Transcontental Pipeline is the largest)
have been approached on acquisition of rights of way for carving out a new kind of intersection at 206 and Ewing.
The spot has a long history of accidents.

The Township feels, Mayor Wallace said this week, that state rather than Township
money should be used to buy the rights of way.

"We're going to tell the state people that they should buy the rights of way and build the jug handle," he said.
After all, it's a state highway.

At one time, engineers were considering a passing lane on the west so that south-bound vehicles could go around cars
that were waiting on 206 to make the left turn into Ewing.
However, a passing lane
wouldn't be much safer than the present situation, the mayor said. The Township prefers the more complete jug-handle
solution.

NEW 206 LIGHTS?

No Answer. Neither Mon-gomery Township nor Princeton Township has received a reply from the state to the last request for a standard

red-green signal at Route 206
and Cherry Valley Road. A yellow blinker is there now,
but the two adjoining townships don't think it's enough
to insure safety at the intersection.

When you think of the number of letters we address to the state, just Princeton Township observed Mayor Wallace said, and then multiply it by every other town in New Jersey, it's not surprising we haven't had an answer."

BATTLE CONTINUES

Against Post Office. Five Township residents announced
a campaign to try and prevent construction of a post office on Harrison Street North.

The New Jersey State Supreme Court has refused Princeton Township's request to review a unanimous decision of the Appellate Court which cleared the way for construction of the post office on land owned by the Thamel Corporation of Princeton, and leased
to the post office department.

The five are Steve M. Slaby, 189 Ewing, John Sly, 464 Ewing, and Anthony Pirone, 491 Ewing, all close neighbors of the proposed post office and veterans of the battle against its construction, and Seymour Aperit, 27 Randolph Road, and
Mrs. Valerian Diamond, 30
Walnut Lane.

In a statement to the press
this week, Mr. Slaby said:

"The issue before our community is whether or not we wish to succumb to real-estate maneuvering by commercial real-estate interests that make it feasible for any arbitrary owner to contract with an agency of the Federal Government to lease land for the express purpose of by-passing our zoning laws to construct non-conforming and disruptive installations anywhere he wishes."

The larger question we must face and answer as citizens is whether justice can be permitted to be obtained in a market place where "justice" is dispensed to the highest bidder and whether individuals in our society have in actuality any real political influence (even in these dark times) to have and beyond voting every few years.

Mr. Sligh's committee asks residents to write Congressman Frank Thompson, Senator Harry Harrison Williams and Clifford P. Case, and also J. J. Doherty, regional director of the Post Office Department in the General Post Office Building in Philadelphia, and Eugene Cunk, 12 Nassau Street who is president of the Transit Corporation.

RIGHT IS CALLED By Presbyterian Unit, The Princeton Presbyterian Commission has put into motion steps to call William Kight to continue his work among Princeton youth, following his

JAYCEE SALUTE: William N. Kight (left) receives the Princeton Jaycees' "Man of the Year Award" from Paul Kirkwood for his street ministry among Princeton Youth during the past four years. The award was made at a testimonial dinner at the Nassau Inn.

The responsibilities will involve him in counseling and the street work for which he has become so well known during the past four years. March 15 is the tentative starting date.

The Presbyterian Commission, composed of clergy and laymen from the three Presbyterian churches, met last week with Mr. Kight, J. Burwell Harrison and Nicholas Carnevale of Princeton Rotary.

Within the structure of the United Presbyterian Church, the job will have to be approved by Mr. Kight's home presbytery in Ohio and by the New Brunswick Presbytery. Ifa ordination falls within the jurisdiction of the Ohio presbytery.

"Functionally, he could be on the job before those three steps are completed," the Rev. Eliot A. Daley of First Presbyterian Church said on Tuesday.

The groundswell in favor of keeping Mr. Kight in Princeton to continue his street ministry has caught the Presbyterian Commission short of funds. His work will be supported by contributions from the community-at-large, encouraged and coordinated by the Rotary Club.

Those wishing to participate in the support of his street ministry may make tax deductible contributions payable to the First Presbyterian Church of Princeton. Gifts should be forwarded to Fred M. Blatcher at the Princeton Rotary Club, 32 Nassau Street.

TOPICS Of The Town

MAN SERIOUSLY BURNED
In Bank Street Fire, A 60-year old Bank Street man remains in poor condition in Princeton Hospital, following a fire that gutted his side of a two and one-half story frame house at 29 Bank Street early Sunday morning.

James Howley was rescued from the second floor by Thomas Johnson and Raymond Wadsworth of the Fire Department, after Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt and Ptl. Joseph Wilhelm, first on the scene, tried to enter the building but were beaten back by the smoke and heat. Mr. Howley was reported to be unconscious and not breathing but members of the Princeton First Aid and Rescue squad were able to revive him with external heart massage and oxygen.

The fire was reported at 7:37 a.m. by a neighbor, Miss Rita McCloskey, 21 Bank Street. Police requested a general alarm at 7:38 and by 8:03, according to Lt. Michael Carnevale, the First Aid Squad was on the scene.

Mrs. Helen Larkin was evacuated from the other half of the house by Borough police. It is owned, police said, by Miss Anne E. Larkin, 85 William Street.

Fire Chief William A. Hussey reported that he believes the blaze may have started from the ash of a cigarette. "We believe Mr. Howley was smoking on the couch in the living room," he said.

By the time firemen arrived, flames were shooting out windows and the roof. The interior and roof of the north side of the building were badly damaged by flames. The first floor was gutted.

Mr. Howley was caught on the second floor. He sustained second and third degree burns and smoke inhalation. Police report that he had recently returned from a stay in the hospital.

PENN CENTRAL REPLES
But Not Enough. "See you on the 7:52 Monday morning on one of the rear cars. Bring your buddies..."

The invitation is from James Harford, 32 Mason Drive, founder of the Committee of 100 Princeton Commuters, who has been planning for some time now to withhold his Penn Central fare until he gets a long-range plan for improved service on the railroad.

Late in January, Mr. Harford wrote Stuart Saunders, chairman of the Penn Central

CIGARETTE TO BLAME: Borough Police report that fire which severely burned a resident of this Bank Street house early Sunday morning was probably started by a cigarette he had been smoking. (Staff Photo)

Board, warning him of a possible withholding of fare if Mr. Harford winces at the word "strike" — unless Penn Central came forward with that long-range plan.

On February 16, Mr. Saunders replied. He told Mr. Harford that Penn Central had a happy either, about the performance of trains 200 and 223, which Mr. Harford had previously protested.

He described a schedule shift which Penn Central hopes will improve things, and he added, "I am very sorry that any Penn Central passenger feels he must withhold his fare because the standard of service has not measured up to his expectations."

Needless to say, Mr. Harford is not satisfied. "We are not interested merely in improving the service of 200 and 223," he says in reply.

Mr. Harford wants to know what the railroad spends on research into new technology, how much it gets in state and federal subsidy for passenger service in New Jersey, what the commuter passenger growth has been in ten years and what is projected for 1975. It is true that the railroad has cut its maintenance budget and so on.

All Aboard. Meantime, Monday is now in sight, down the track. Some of Mr. Harford's colleagues are uneasy about the business of withholding your fare. He has a suggestion. The fare would not be so much withheld, as simply held in hostage.

Mr. Harford estimates the one-way fare at almost exactly $1, featuring only a bonus of $43.65 for a monthly ticket, divided by 41 one way trips on 22 working days in March.

Give the conductor a $1.00 on each trip, he suggests, along with your name and address. This is the procedure the conductor's rule book tells him to follow when confronted with a non-paying passenger or, Mr. Harford has discovered.

Then when Penn Central officials finally presents us with what we've asked for (and should have had long ago): a long-range plan for improved service — we can send Chairman Stuart Saunders the money we owe him along with our congratulations.

CRASH! KILLS DECEIT

Body Hurled 27 Feet. An administrator of the Neuro Psychiatric Institute in Skillman was killed last week when her car was involved in a collision at the intersection of the Great Road and Stuart Road. Dr. Francis F. Downey, 53, who lived at the institute, was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Alfred Fein, a passing motorist. Police said that Dr. Downey's body was thrown 27 feet from her car and struck the curb of the Great Road.

The second driver was Miss Anna K. Vickers, 76, of 40 Montadale Drive, who was driving on Stuart Road. She was released from Princeton Hospital after being x-rayed and treated for head cuts.

Sgt. Anthony Neri, the Town ship's traffic officer, and Ptl. David A. Funk are investigating the accident, which occurred at 5:28 p.m. last Wednesday. Sgt. Neri reported that the impact of Dr. Downey's head against the curb probably caused her death.

A native of Philadelphia, Dr. Downey served the institute as assistant medical director and chief of the medical-surgical geriatric section. She had joined the staff at Skillman in 1966.

Her husband, Dr. Franklyn R. Downey, 397 Hartley Avenue, is employed at the Mead

low Lakes Nursing Center. He had previously been a member of the Princeton University infirmary staff. Three sons also survive.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETS

Briefly, A school board meeting which lasted only 37 minutes is breath-taking in any town, and in Princeton it's down-right miraculous.

In fact, some in Tuesday night's audience speculated chiefly about sludgery; after all, the agenda contained 15 pages of progress report on the Wednesday Program and a page on the Black Impact Study as well, which nobody in the audience wanted to comment on because nobody had had time to read either. No verbal presentations were made by the staff.

John Marks, board president, emphasized that both programs would be on the agenda and open for discussion at the March meeting on (Thursday, March 31 at 8 p.m., Community Park).

People who didn't go to the meeting Thursday night may pick up copies of the Wednesday Program report and the summary of progress on the Black Impact study at any school library, Dr. Marks said.

During his brief moment of action, the board appointed David Mackey, art teacher at Little Brook, to the position of Staff Assistant for the Long Range Planning Committee.

The appointment will take effect as soon as we can, without fracturing the art program at Little Brook," said Pherson.

Mr. Mackey will serve through the summer, but his full status hasn't been determined yet, the superintendent said.

Principal Mrs. Marjorie Whelan presented a petition bearing 126 signatures on Monday. Miss Florence Burke, acting principal of Princeton High School, for her administration of the school in the last six months, and urging "that she be considered a prime candidate for the permanent job of principal."

Dr. Marks said applications for the principal's position were being asked by various committees and the options of the community will be considered.

Measles, "Children from the last epidemic of rubella (German measles) are now reaching school age," stated Dr. Robert Bierman, pediatrician and town board member.

The board approved a Rubella immunization program in the schools. Immunization time whether the Wednesday Program in action agrees will avoid give, so far as doctors the description of it on file with know now, a life time immunization funding agency, and which say to the district. March comes cooing
Down the street
(Is April slipping
At her feet?)

Even before March arrives Sunday, February will provide a preview with chilly, blustery weather. The mild temperatures in the early part of the week will disappear in cold nights.

Cloudy skies are expected to prevail for the next few days, the Ken reports. Snow flurries are a possibility, but when asked whether the winter of 1970 still had one big snowstorm left, he just hung out a big question mark.

The Princeton Regional School Board superintendents would eliminate the public vote on the issue of budgets. Thomas P. Cook, board member, said, "It can be argued this is the last chance of the board to have a say in the future of the school system, but a public vote on the issue is a burden on other public bodies has to bear."

The board also supports a review of the state law requiring public school districts to have non-public school students, and Mr. Cook said he is writing legislation urging repeal.

On their first day of observation, Wednesday, February 4, they spent the morning with Dr. Geraldine Peckard, coordinator of staff development, and director of the current Title III project. In the afternoon, they observed various Wednesday Program groups.

On their second day, last Wednesday, February 18, Mr. Halpin interviewed Mrs. Elaine Solomon, coordinator of the Wednesday Program, and Dr. Charles Hudich, Director of Special Services. Mr. Wilson met with the system's curriculum coordinators, Douglas Coulter, social studies; Norman Van Arsdale, physical education; James Messersmith, science and John Zaza, mathematics. Mr. Gerardi interviewed Dr. Philip E. McPherson, superintendent. In the afternoon, the three evaluators again observed various Wednesday workshops.

On their third visit, last Thursday, they attended a meeting of the Administrative Council of the school system and interviewed various individuals, including Winthrop Dick, member of the Board of Education who in the past has voted against the Wednesday Program, and Miss Suzanne Fremon, a recently retired school board member, who has supported the program. They also interviewed secretaries, custodians workers, and other members of the non-institutional staff.

The evaluation was carried out at the instigation of the state Department of Education as part of the continuing funding of the Wednesday Program under Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, which is concerned with innovative programs. The evaluation report is expected early in March, and will be made available to the public as soon as possible after it is received.

The evaluation is to determine if the Wednesday Program in action agrees will avoid give, so far as doctors the description of it on file with know now, a life time immunization funding agency, and which say to the district. For funds, the goals of the Wednesday Program are to establish a broad and sound in-service education program in the Princeton Regional schools which will have a continuing positive effect on the growth and quality of the school system, and to serve as a model for other communities.

The evaluators were Robert Gerardi, Superintendent of the Delton Regional District in Franklinville, N.J.; John Halpin, of the Greater New Haven school district, and Sherwood Wilson, assistant director of the Educational Improvement Center, in Gloucester.

They had access to all documents pertaining to the Wednesday Program, including copies of "Wednesday," the weekly newsletter circulated to all participants, and copies of relevant articles in the local newspapers. In addition, they spent time in the schools, observing, asking questions, and listening.

PHS FIRE WAS ARSON
Say Borough Police. The February 5 fire at Princeton High School, which forced evacuation of all students that day, was started intentionally, not accidentally, in the opinion of Borough police.

Our investigation has eliminated all other possibilities," said Lt. Michael Carnevale. Among these possibilities were spontaneous combustion and electrical causes. Lt. Carnevale hastened to add, however, that police have no suspects nor do they know what started the blaze.

The fire began in a rear storage room which had stored two 500-pound bales of foam rubber used in track meets. Smoke from the smoldering rubber caused considerable damage but loss by fire was slight. No one was injured.

The school is protected by an alarm system tied into the police station that is triggered by heat sensors. At the time of the February 5 fire, one fireman reported later that the school's alarm system had been turned off because students repeatedly pull false alarms in the halls.

Six alarms since the February 5 fire have been classified as deliberate false ones, by the police. There have been 12 other accidental or short circuit alarms.

Borough and Township officials said they will help review the fire alarm procedures at all Princeton schools at the invitation of the school board.

YOUTH IS CHARGED

With PHS Assault. An 18-year-old male was arrested Thursday by Borough police who charged him with trespassing at Princeton High School and assaulting three students just inside the school. Released in his own recognizance to await a hearing on Wednesday was Kenneth Busch of 73 Moran Avenue. Police said that he was a student at PHS last year. Juvenile Officer Thomas Proaccino, who happened to be in the school at the time, signed the complaint.

None of the three assaulted required medical attention. Lt. Michael Carnevale commented that police will continue to make arrests at the school when there is just cause or when persons enter the school to disrupt proceedings.

TWO MORE ARRESTED

In Student Rentry. The two remaining youths who were still at large last week after having been charged with the robbery of two Princeton University students in Henry Hall have been apprehended. Borough police report.

One, a 16-year-old juvenile from Cranbury, will be processed by juvenile authorities, Lt. Michael Carnevale stated. The other, Thad Gould, 20, of Extra Road, Hightstown, was picked up by the Hightstown police, who charged him with possession of marijuana.

After the Hightstown charge has been cleared up, Gould will be turned over to the Borough police who have a detainer on him, charging him with robbery.

PHS REVIEWS POLICY

On Grievances. New grievance procedures at Princeton High School designed to cover not only student-teacher conflicts, but even poor school facilities, the curriculum and protests against school policies, are now under review by the high school community.

The new procedures have been in the works since September. The working group is the CASA Citizens Committee (CASA for Committee of Action on School Affairs) composed of students, faculty and townspeople.

Basically, the procedure is a diagram of steps to be followed by anybody in the high school community who has a complaint to make about almost anything. Included in the procedures are both a structured approach and a more in formal way of reaching a solution.

"The plan also is aimed at creating an atmosphere where problems can be solved through co-operative efforts rather than placing the blame on one person or another," says Jim Larky, student member of the Citizens Committee.

Miss Florence Burke, PHS principal, says she is "pleased" with the final product, and thinks the student grievance procedure will be most effective "in getting people together quickly" to examine situations as they arise.

The new policy still has to be worked out to complex Tuesday at the March meeting of the new Joint Borough-Township planning board. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall.

The sidewalk Master Plan for Princeton Township has been placed on the board's April agenda. Township Mayor John D. Wallace said this week that a walk will be built on the north side of Sandown Lane between Leabrook and Braeburn at a cost of $7,000. The Township is studying possible sidewalks on parts of Linden and Ewing. The municipality has $25,000 set aside for walks in the budget.

ed in the court of Charles II of England, after the monarchy was restored to that country. It is stylized drama which is suave, theatrical and filled with irony and wit.

McCart's spokesmen point out that the plot of "The Way of the World," with its unscrupulous maneuverings for sexual pleasure and its cynical lust for money, may remind modern audiences of the doings of the jet set.

Mr. Ivory is the man who filmed "Shakespeare Wallah." With "The Guru," he is still in India, dealing with conflict between West and East, as a rock-and-roll star comes to India to learn to play the sitar and finds his guru demanding that he make a total commitment to Indian culture as well as to Indian music.

In the cast are Michael York as the singer; Uppu Dutt as the guru and Rita Tushingham as a Western hippie.

This will be the third season for Summer Intime. The director plans to follow previous policy of presenting an eight week season of four plays in repertory, a weekly movie series, concerts and various special productions.

Summer 1970 will be in the hands of Mr. Berkowitz, John C. Venneria and Richard B. Williams, all of whom have been associated with past summer ventures and with Theater in me itself, during the academic year.

Previous summers have offered "Anne of the Thousand Days," "A Shot in the Dark," and "Heathcliff House," a among other productions.

OPERA PLANS "FAUST"
Tries to Start Soon. De- scribed by critics as "top notch," the Princeton Opera Association's production of Goethe's classic "Faust" will be performed May 22 and 23 in McCarter Theatre.

The starring role of Marguerite will be sung by Debbie Truxall, a young member of the Metropolitan Opera who began her career in Princeton. Her performance in the same role last summer in the P.O.A. open air production at Washington Crossing State Park was hailed as "a revelation" by critics.

Joining Miss Truxall in the cast at McCarter will be many members of the 10-year-old Princeton Opera Association, both amateur and professional. Triesouts for supporting roles will be held in the near future. Music and highlights of the opera include the Jewel Song.

IT'S NEW To Us

OFF TO CANE FARM
By The Covered Bridge.
There's an interesting old covered bridge to drive through on the way to Cane Farm. It is said to be the only one left in New Jersey.

You'll find it on the road between Sergeantville and Rosemont, a picturesque old structure that handles traffic one way with a modern bridge beside it. You might, in fact, make an excursion of it, dining at the very pleasant old Sergeantville Inn and then browsing through the antique reproductions at the Cane Farm in Rosemont. Both are open daily and Sundays.

Rosemont is a New Jersey farming hamlet of about 100 people, and it dates back to pre-Revolutionary War days. In the cemetery is the grave of Captain Daniel Bray, an unsung hero who collected the spoils for George Washington's famous crossing of the Delaware.

Rosemont hamlet changed in the 36 years I've been here. Philip Cane said last week. It's a pretty place, with low mountains around. The town was known as "Cross Keys" at one time.

The Cane Farm is a delight to those who enjoy Early

HANDCRAFTED COPPER LANTERNS and lamps are among the features of the Cane Farm, Rosemont, where Philip Cane, has assembled more than 300 designs of colonial furniture.

American furniture. Craftsmen at the farm reproduce designs that are among the more unusual. We try to make things that are not readily available," Mr. Cane said, pointing out a slim, tall settee that is a copy of one he found in the Metropolitan Museum.

The settee is late 17th Century in design, with a high shallow back and a bright red cushion on the low seat. There's an interesting copy of a Shaker sewing table — an oval topped piece with a drawer at each end where the women kept their threads, needles and scissors. Both apple and pine are used in the piece.

"They combined woods a lot in the old days," Mr. Cane offered. "Pine doesn't turn well in a lathe. We always use hardwoods for the bases."

Handcrafted Windsor chairs with slender spindles in the back and arms are available in a number of forms. We saw a high-backed chair with a writing surface arm, and a drawer beneath the arm, which Mr. Cane said has appealed to a number of his customers. There's also a Windsor bench with lovely lines to the low back and arms, and a number of other types of spindle backed chairs.

The Windsor chairs are made by a craftsman in Massachusetts. The Cane's have them unfinished and complete the work in their shops. "Most furniture stores do one thing," Mr. Cane told us. "They buy furniture from the manufacturers and sell it. We do that, but we also buy furniture from the makers and custom finish it to our customer's order."

There are also over 300 different furniture designs that the Cane Farm craftsmen make themselves. They can work from a rough drawing.

too, if you have a project in mind.

You'll see a table lamp made from a two-foot wooden pulley, with wide strands of rope on the reel; settees that copy a wagon seat bench, and a square shaped shaker cupboard, with a small closed door in the center of the upper half, above four deep drawers. Phil Cane copied a wooden cradle that is in his father's house. It looks as though it belongs beside a great fire place (56"). And he has also copied a Virginia hunt board — a country piece in pine that was dated about 1800.

The Shaker trestle tables at Cane Farm are copies of a 1740 piece. They may be ordered in any length between 4 and 10 and in such wood as cherry, walnut, pine or whatever a customer chooses. And for the collectors of silver flatware — cups and saucers, butterflips — Cane Farm has an extremely attractive seven drawer cabinet that sits on a low table. The drawers are about 1 1/2" deep.

Mr. Cane has found his designs in all sorts of places. Starbridge, Wadsworth Antiquarium, the Metropolitan. And he is so keenly interested, that you will find him very helpful.

The Cane Farm has four lines of upholstered furniture in addition to its handcrafted pieces. It has a selection of hunt print on its walls that take you back to the 1820's — and contemporary paintings by Alexander Farm of Stockton. There are pottery pieces made locally, and a charming chair for a child by George Redfield. We noticed a number of trestle desks that are unusual, made of beautifully grained wood.

And Cane Farm, in addition to all this, has an excellent repair shop where antiques are restored.

EVER FRAME A SHOW
Queenstown Craft has George Koepfel believes that about the strangest thing he's ever framed was a crime planted shovel that had been used for a momentous around breaking ceremony. "I mounted it on cypress and put a frame around it and it turned out to be very attractive,"
he says, a little surprised.

Mr. Koepfel is the owner of Queenstown Craft in Pennington, which concentrates
on framing these days.
He feels he also met a challenge
when a couple brought in a bowl and arrow that their son has sent from Vietnam.
That was when the show was upright, he recalls. "I got the whole thing framed and couldn't get it down the stairs.
It was very embarrassing!"

For collectors, he has made shadow boxes about 3' deep on the sides, to display their combs or arrowheads. A woman brought him a length of fabrics she particularly liked
and asked him to frame it.
Another woman had him
mount a watercolor between two large pieces of glass.
When it was hung on the wall, the color of the wall
acted as the matt board.

And of course, he has framed mirrors of all sizes, the strange, perhaps was the crooked mirror he turned out to match the crooked faucet in a customer's bathroom.

"I don't know how it looked," he said thoughtfully, but it does show that you can frame anything if you have the imagination."

Most of the Queenstown Craft's customers bring in prints and paintings for framing. "Graphic work is very popular nowadays," Mr. Koep-fel notes.

He is a former cabinetmaker and a native of Homestead
where he sold newspapers on the corner during the Lindbergh kidnapping trial. He was postmaster of Pennington
for about 11 years. "I quit because my shoulders aren't broad enough. It's a really hard job — the people yell
at you and the department
yells at you — and there you are right between the two!"

He attended Pennington Preparatory School and Lafayette College and served during World War II as a member of a Navy armed guard on merchant ships in both the Atlantic and Pacific theatres.
He happened into Queenstown
Crafts one day when Rose Harris, Whetherill was in distress because the framer had just quit. They became partners and he is now sole owner.
You'll find fine quality frames at Queenstown, and some are unfinished woods if you would like to finish a frame yourself.

Finally, they decide—24 hours

What richness and depth the

and brilliant came a workman, Dimes Hogner and Pennington, directed an wrote with Terry Southern the film and plays the leading roles. As Leo young, long haired motorcycleist, they hand over a wall of bills to a Mexican, get a supply of dope,
take time out to sniff cocaine,
then, at an airport in the States, turn the stuff over to another character, who pays them off.

The two young men, now
free of financial worries, set out across the country to see the Merdi Gras. As they journey, they meet up with prejudice, fear, a home commune, jail, and introduce an American Civil Liberties worker to marijuana. Attacked by vigilantes, they escape and find refuge in a New Orleans
brothel, where they have a
"bad trip" on LSD. The ending is nearly anticlimactic.

The film catches the mystique of the motorcycle and the beauty of the countryside.
The music—a dozen rock and folk rock songs—intensifies
the mood of pathos and impending tragedy. Performances are so uniformly good as to seem a kind of documentary record, in a one-sided but effective statement.

TABLES FOR LADIES
Women Sit-In and Wio. We men may now have lunch in the Nassau Inn's traditional stag stronghold, the Yankee Doodle Tap Room, and it only took about ten minutes for the order to be filled.

A sit-in was held on Monday by N.O.W., the National Organization for Women, whose members and supporters do not believe the Nass should let men in and keep women out.

Traditionally, the Tap Room has been completely stag. In recent years, however, the tradition has softened and lately the room has been open to women at any time except the noon hour. And even then women have been suffering to walk through, provided they were on their way some place else.

About a dozen men and women members of N.O.W. were present Monday. Joining them were some 20 men and women undergraduates and wives of students. The protesters gathered in the main lobby and descended to the Tap Room at noon. By 12:10, the Nass' resistance had melted like ice in Bourbon and the sitters-in were calmly studying a menu and ordering lunch.

Service, please. When the women and their supporters entered, and sat down, James M. O'Connor, manager of the Nassau Inn, looked at them mournfully. He has only been manager for about two months.

TAP ROOM NO LONGER STAG; Dr. Jennifer S. Macleod, president of the Central New Jersey chapter of the National Organization for Women, prepares to eat a symbolic lunch in the Yankee Doodle Tap Room of the Nassau Inn. After a 10-minute sit-in Monday organized by N.O.W., the Nass agreed to serve women in its Tap Room, traditionally "for men only" at lunch-time.

For a time, nothing happened except reporters' questions. Mrs. Carolyn Scheiner, who organized the sit-in, said the demonstrators would sit until they were served lunch. If no body produced any soup, they planned to visit Dr. Robert F. Goheen, president of Princeton University. The University owns 98% of the stock in Palmer Square, Inc., of which the Nassau Inn is a part.

"Historically, this has been a place for local businessmen," Mr. O'Connor explained uncomfortably. "Our position isn't so much that we refuse to serve women, as that we, as management, cannot recommend this room to women."

Asked why management could not recommend the room, Mr. O'Connor said again that it was "for businessmen."

He also told reporters that women had been served in the Tap Room before. "If they've been turned away, I haven't been aware of it," but he admitted he'd only been around two months.

He did acknowledge that business groups which included women had been asked to eat elsewhere in the Inn.

By this time, menus had been passed around and Mr. O'Connor confirmed the fact that the women were indeed going to be served.

Mrs. Scheiner asked whether women who came in the future would also be served, and Mr. O'Connor said yes. "Would a woman be served if she came alone?" Mrs. Scheiner asked. This certainly is a change in policy!

Mr. O'Connor said, well, she would have to make her presence known to the maitre d'hotel. "I hope we do serve women," he added.

Later, Mrs. Scheiner told reporters that the Tap Room sit-in was a minor matter for N.O.W. The organization's goal is equal rights for women.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED

For Shoplifting, William G. Marshall, 20, 68 Clay Street, received a 90-day suspended sentence to the Mercer County Workhouse last week in Borough criminal court for shoplifting.

Marshall pleaded guilty to shoplifting an electric razor, alarm clock and alarm kit from Marsh's Drug Store last November 10. In addition, Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr. placed him on probation for 18 months. In a second, bad check charge, Marshall was sentenced to 30 days in the Workhouse and placed on probation for six months. The 30-day sentence was suspended. He was charged with possession of a stolen and forged check which he had tried to cash for $75 at the First National Bank of Princeton.

Fredrick T. Skoworth, 18, Hollow Road, Skillman, was fined $25 for using offensive and abusive language at the Daily Madison Luncheonette on Nassau Street. The commission on Page 13.

...was Miss Clair M. Webb, the manager.
A second charge of trespassing in Wilson Hall on the University campus February 11 against Skupworth was adjourned when the complainant, instructor Michael E. Felton, failed to appear.

Three men were fined $60 each for selling watches door-to-door without first obtaining a Borough permit to solicit. They are Marus Muhammad of Camden, Fakhah Abdelrahman of Brooklyn and Walid Asadallah, also of Brooklyn.

Held in $3000 Bail. Oscar Smith, 22, Elra Road, Hightstown, and Carl Douglas of Trenton, were each held over in Mercer County Jail in default of $3,000 bail and their hearing adjourned to March 4. They have been charged with taking part in the robbery of $145 last week from two university students in Henry Hall. The students were arrested in their room late at night and bound with electrical cord.

Bail of $300 against Henry Page, 20, of Trenton was continued to allow him time to obtain a public defender. He has been charged by the police with possession of stolen property, possession of alcohol in a car and with trespassing. The latter charge was brought by a manager of a Prospect Avenue eating club.

FOUR ARE INJURED
When Car Hits Pole. Four occupants of a car which hit a pole on Route 206 near Edgerstone Road early Sunday morning were treated at Princeton Hospital.

The driver, Elton C. Bryant, 22, 32 Clay Street; Margaret S. Bryant, 21, same address; and Mattie G. McClees, 26, of Newark all received assorted lacerations, abrasions and conusions. Aaron T. McClees, 29, of Newark required seven sutures to close lacerations of the forehead. He was admitted to the hospital for observation.

Mr. Bryant told Township Pil. Mario Musso that he was driving between 35 and 45. It was 4:48 in the morning and his three passengers were asleep. As he approached a curve, he continued; another car from the opposite direction crossed over the double line. To avoid a head on collision, Mr. Bryant said that he swerved to the right and struck a pole.

Pil. Musso issued a summons for careless driving. Noting three pairs of skidmarks, Pil. Musso said in his report that there was no physical evidence of another car crossing the center line. The car had to be towed away.

ACLU READIES "BASH"

in injury to a woman passenger.
Mrs. Phloemene Challella, 46, 357 Franklin Avenue, was taken by patrol car to Princeton Hospital where she was treated for bruises and contusions
of both knees, nose and forehead. She was released.

She was a passenger in a car traveling west on Hamlet
road, driven by Perina Danclo,
to 35, 357 Franklin. The Danclo car struck a station wagon
traveling on Moore operated by Deborah J. Coda, 17, 15 Marion Road W. whom
Sgt. Robert Anderson ticketed
for failing to observe a stop sign.

The impact forced the station wagon sideways into the left front fender of a car operated by Mark A. Heald, 41, of 205 Moore Street. It then jumped the curb on Moore Street and continued on for 65 feet. All three cars had to be towed away.

Sgt. Anderson quoted Miss Coda as saying, "I stopped,
looked both ways, started up and saw a car coming on my right. I didn't know whether to stop or speed across. I sped up, and got hit on the right side."

DRUG TALK?

Small Study Groups Propose
ed. Drug problems could be discussed in small groups, perhaps meeting at a neighborhood place like a school, suggested Township Mayor John D. Wallace this week.

The Township plans to extend its drug education programs, he told his monthly press conference, but feels that big, mass meetings may not be an answer. People might sign up for two-day sessions, the mayor suggested,
gathering in small numbers to see films, listen to experts and talk about drugs.

Expansion Is Keynote in Hospital Master Plan

A completely new emergency department, costing almost $1 million dollars,
has been set as the prime goal for 1970
at Princeton Hospital. Calling the present emergency facility "inadequate and dangerous," the hospital corporation has also listed additional patient bed floors,
parking, surgical, mechanical and storage expansion needs as priority projects
in the next four years.

A master plan which extends through 1980 was disclosed at the 50th Annual meeting of Princeton Hospital Corporation Tuesday night. According to board of trustees' president George W. Conover, the working drawings for the new emergency room are complete, and some $323,750 is anticipated from the federal government to help pay for construction.
The rest of the budgeted cost of $925,000
will be raised through the annual giving program in the community, Mr. Conover said.

Hospital records show attendance at the present emergency room has shot up from 10,000 cases in 1966 to 23,000 last year. This year, the estimate is for 28,000 cases, or more than 75 per cent.

Significant improvements in hospital
care were achieved during 1969, according to the Corporation. The renovation program that began in 1968 saw completion of nursing units, social service,
medical records and rehabilitation facilities. The 93-bed extended care facility of Merwick came into its own, relieving some pressure on the hospital's acute bed supply. Although there were waiting lists for selective admission in 1969, no

emergency patients were turned away,
partly due to the new facility.

New equipment purchases last year
included x-ray machines, two electrocardiograph machines, a microtome, electrophoresis apparatus and a delivery
table. A small addition to the Medical Arts building provided more space for physicians' offices.

Two bylaw amendments were recommended to the corporation Tuesday. The first would put at least one member of the medical and dental staffs on the board of trustees; the second would create the office of Executive vice president, an administrative post which would stabilize communications between the rotating boards of trustees and the permanent staff. Increasing demands are being made upon staff members to take roles in the management of modern hospitals across the country, according to the 1969 medical and dental staff president, Dr. Ellwood C. Godfrey.

The complete ten-year master plan as submitted by the planning committee to the corporation is as follows:

Stage 1 — Emergency area — (completion 1970)

Stage 2 — Parking garage; mechanical floor, surgical floor, eighty new beds,
storage and locker areas; personnel
housing. (Completion by 1974.)

Stage 3 — One hundred new beds;
enlarged surgery and observation; personnel housing; linen and service areas;
lab and x-ray expansion. (Completion
by 1980, tentative.)

All are due to appear in court on March 18. They are subject to a maximum sentence of 30 days in jail, a $100 fine or both.

Among the streets where police found violations were Nassau, Spruce, Wiggins, Jefferson, Chestnut, Tulane and Prospect.

Education is regarded as the key to the problem by Township police and other experts,
the mayor said.

"The more people recognize what to look for in their own families, the better off we'll be on the drug problem," he stated.

"THEIR OWN THING"

Since its opening the Princeton Youth Center
on Witherspoon Street has become a special kind of gathering place for many of the town's teenagers: a place off the streets for the things they themselves have asked for. It's a place to play, to create, to seek guidance—perhaps, most of all, just somewhere away from the sidewalks to meet and talk, to be with friends. It's their own thing and they're rightfully proud of it.

The Youth Center is once again open for business after a long-needed refurbishing of the interior — freshly painted, newly lit, and in a number of other ways made to look brighter,
more attractive and appealing to young people.
In these sparkling quarters the center plans new professionally-led programs aimed at youthful needs and interests.

The Princeton Youth Fund — whose resources are supporting the Youth Center this year—needs your financial backing in making the Center the kind of facility that young people, and their parents, have wanted in Princeton for many years.
The Youth Center is heartily endorsed by Princeton
High School as well as by both the Borough and Township governments. The Fund's goal is $53,000 to maintain the professional staff and continually expand needed programs over an 18-month period.

The Princeton Youth Fund helps to promote efforts for and by the young people of your community.

ART In Princeton

AT GALLERY 100

Dark Gallery 100's newly decorated showrooms have on display the work of two local and well-known artists: Yvonne Burk and Marie Sturken. Both artists are involved with painting and printmaking and provide striking examples of each in the show.

Yvonne Burk's paintings are with color. As one enters the gallery and looks straight back, the painting "Boardwalk" strikes the on-looker with its vibrant play of color and shapes. The late of the painting rests primarily on the interaction of the colors. The acid greens and blues pull towards each other across the black areas and the perpendicular patterns draw the eye through the composition. The bright and alive reds give the needed focal point and emphasis.

The paintings "Lacked" and "No. 2 Acrylic" which have heavy impasto texture under many are considerably abstract. The middle colors allow the texture to remain dominant.

In many paintings, Mrs. Burk hangs on to a seen balance of subject matter and simplifying and diverting to achieve the design which she finds pleasing. In others, she leaves all semblance of subject matter and relies entirely on color, form and texture for effect. It is up to the individual observer to say which is more effective for him.

One can see from the richness of the color and variety of texture that the artist has worked through many artistic problems as she moves from realism to abstraction. The struggle involved in solving these problems gives vitality to the work.

One has the feeling that this artist wants to bring the importance of color to her preference — that she has a painter's approach to coloring. It is difficult to bring about color in this medium but she has managed it, both in "Red Cell" where it is enhanced by being mounted with an indelible pure white depression and in her bright blue "Rock Guard" den.

Sturken Marie Sturken has found herself in printmaking. Her paintings are decorative and well executed but one feels that the real challenge for her at this point is her work in etching and silk screen.

Again, as with Yvonne Burk, the painter in her strives for color. She has solved this need in some cases with the use of silkscreen. "Struggle Possible" is greatly enhanced by the yellow yellow silk screen behind it. The texture of the metal plate is accentuated by the pure color underneath. There is, in this print, the flowing, rhythmic which is evident in much of Marie Sturken's work in particular the fine wood cuts.

The black and white "Summer 1968" is a powerful print. Printmaking traditionally has often earned a message congruent with the times. Goya, Dürer and Cézanne are part of the tradition. The struggle in 1968 for a "one American" words which the artist uses on her plate, is symbolized by her dramatic choice of subject matter and adds a meaningful element to a good design. Basic materials include sign of value relationships — wire mesh, wire mesh, Much of her other work deals with contemporary patterns. The anonymity of the commuter is shown by a flat horizon line, with a horizon line. The bright and alive reds give the needed focal point and emphasis.

The irregularly shaped plate has become a trademark of Marie Sturken's work. It is frequently used in "Edd of the Moon" an artist's reaction to the moon landing. These two Princeton artists have put together a show of great interest which is well worth viewing.

AT TRUMPETER

Trumpeter, Inc. The Trumpeter Gallery is featuring the well-known printmaker Friedlender and some of those who have studied with him. The group, Baulinger, Gauthier, Couda is a now most successful in their own right.

There is a certain delicacy of textural quality and softness of color which runs throughout the work of this group. Re-occurring purples, yellow ochre and earth colors are predominant. Friedlender, the teacher, is the only one to go completely abstract; the others maintain a degree of subject matter.

Particularly appealing is the whimsical series of Baulinger's, characterized by the print "Children Over Child" (Rear Caravan and Couda here a whimsical child like appeal also. Gauthier is more on design for its own sake; his statement is an interesting idea, as it does give a sense of how a teacher's impact is interpreted by different personalities.

She Speaks Five Languages (Including Music)

"Victoria de los Angeles was in Spain with a cold."

This impetuous announcement came by telephone one Sunday evening to Maida Pollock in her Nassau Street apartment.

Senora de los Angeles was due to sing in Princeton the following evening as one of the artists on the Princeton University Concerts series, and Mrs. Pollock is the manager of the concerts.

"Disaster!" she grimaces in recollection. "There wasn't even time to cancel the concert! Well, I got on the phone Monday morning. And you know all the concert managers work together — and it's really a very harmonious situation — and we finally got the soprano Vishnevskaya. She very graciously sang in McCarter Monday night and THAT crisis passed!"

In Princeton

Maيدا Pollock has been conducting, so to speak University musical events since 1964. She makes sure that artists are left alone before a concert — "that's what most of them want" — and

ACCELERANDO! An eye on the door, an ear on the telephone, and a concert scheduled for half past eight. are well-fed afterwards.

"A performance for an artist is an extremely difficult job, even though the artist is a seasoned professional," she observes, "after a concert, of course, they are enous because most of them don't eat beforehand, even the instrumentalists, and so we have little receptions, perhaps with members of the University Concerts committee, and enough for them to eat."

Cosmopolitan with the sort of chic you associate with Paris—or Budapest—Maيدا Pollock was born and raised in Hungary.

She is a pianist by talent and training, and her innate musicianship combines with her European background to make her the perfect manager away-from-home for a concert artist.

... And Linguist French, German, Hungarian, English — she is fluent in them all. ("I am now learning Italian") Her English is so perfect that a casual listener might not even detect an accent, only a certain charming precision of speech.

Two Friends. As a little girl in Szombathely, Hungary, her closest chum was Edith Zuckerman, the ex-wife of Edith's, on Chambers Street. And it was her friendship with Edith, unbroken over the years, that brought Maيدا Pollock to Princeton. It is an unbelievable story: Mrs. Pollock dropped in on Princeton and Mrs. Zuckerman rather casually for a three-day visit, not really sure whether she wanted to live here, although of course, Princeton appealed to her as an attractive University town.

The first day of her planned three-day stay, she found an apartment in the morning — and a job that afternoon!

"I've sometimes wondered," she smiles, "did I get the University concerts job because they were so impressed that I'd found an apartment on a single morning!"

You're Hired. "The first question they asked me was 'Can you balance your check-book?' It was Arthur Mendel of the music department, who asked me and I was startled! But of course, it's true: much of my work is bookkeeping. And then he asked me, 'Do you know what job you're applying for?' and I had to say 'No.'"

It was the job held for many years by Kit Bryan, and Mrs. Pollock unconcerned, unknown appearance was exactly the event the music department had been waiting for, ever since Mrs. Bryan's retirement.

Until the de los Angeles anecdote, there were no "disasters," but there have been a few interesting happenings since that time. Latest was the blam of William Steinberg, conductor of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra. The Pittsburghers were scheduled to play here on Monday, January 26.

The preceding Thursday night, Mrs. Pollock's home telephone rang as it has before ("Oh, yes, they all know where they can reach me any time —") with the news that the whole program would have to be changed. Later this was modified: only one number had to be changed ("That was a nice lollipop!")

The facts about new savings rates

H. C. STURHAHN
President

Partner, Sturhahn, Dickinson
and Bernard, Inc.

New regulations recently introduced permit Savings and Loan Associations, Savings Banks, and Commercial Banks to pay higher interest rates on both savings accounts and certificates, with a wide range of options.

For certificates under $100,000, both Savings and Loan Associations and Savings Banks may pay as much as 6% a year for 2 year certificates. The top rate for Commercial Banks is 5 3/4%. Other rates are available for lower maturities and usually for lower minimums. The maturity is the length of time funds must remain on deposit to earn the specified rate. The minimum is the smallest deposit that will be accepted for a given certificate rate. Certificates may be redeemed prior to maturity, but the new regulations provide for a penalty of 90 days interest.

New Savings and Loan Associations and Savings Banks may pay 5% interest a year on Regular Savings Accounts. The top rate for Commercial Banks is now 4 1/2%. Nothing compares with the convenience and flexibility of a Regular Savings Account. Deposits and withdrawals may be made in any amount, at any time. Confusion arises because other types of passbook accounts are also available. These, however, are not as convenient in that they usually have a number of restrictions... often 90 days written notice is required if you want to make a withdrawal... or withdrawals may only be made at the completion of an interest period.

Unfortunately space permits but a brief explanation. It's important to get full details before you open your account to make sure that it fits in with your particular savings plan. Our savings counselors at Princeton Savings will be happy to answer all your questions, at any time, and to transfer your funds for you, from any other financial institution in the country.

One thing is certain. Savings and Loan Associations have traditionally paid the highest savings rates in the country, and Princeton Savings has led the way. For America's top savings rates, come to Princeton Savings.

Mr. Alexander is director of the Princeton-based Citizens' Research Foundation, which just received a $300,000 Ford Foundation grant for study of the next two national elections.

The Twentieth Century task force is a non-partisan nine-man group which seeks to recommend ways to keep the American political system open to candidates regardless of their financial resources. A report is expected from the panel before the 1970 Congressional elections this fall.

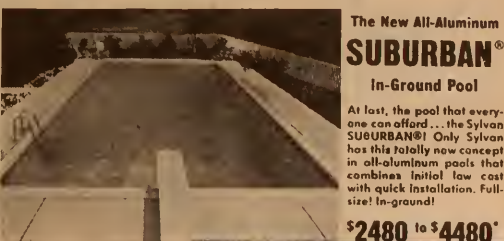

Martha Morgan, 19 Main Street, Cranbury, Julia F. Beck Heather Lane, and Pea E. Jewett of Kingston Terrace Apts. are members of the Wilson College Choir which will sing Saturday evening with the Rutgers Glee Club in Kirkpatrick Chapel, New Brunswick.

Mrs. Barbara Ann Anderson, 219 A Marshall Street, David K. H. Cantor, 1 Matlack Lane, Mrs. Elizabeth Jean Hassan, 118 Birch Avenue, and Juliet Aiden Rake, 152 Cedar Lane have been designated among 1,000 Woodrow Wilson National Fellows for 1970. Selected from more than 12,000 graduating college seniors in the U.S. and Canada, Wilson Fellows are prime candidates for advanced degrees who intend to enter a teaching career. They will be recommended as fellowship candidates to all graduate schools in both countries by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, headquartered in Princeton. Ronald R. Kleppinger, of 14G Millstone River Apartments, received an honorable mention.

In past years, a majority of Wilson designates have secured grants from their chosen graduate schools. However, the Foundation reserves 150 of its own fellowships for those designates who fail to obtain funds from the schools of their choice. The top 100 will also receive funds for research, travel or study during the summer preceding or following their first year of graduate school. These awards will be announced in the spring.

WE DO!

THE CASUAL STORAGE OF GUNS

American households contain an astonishing number of guns. These may be antique collector's items, war souvenirs, weapons for personal protection or an inherited old gun that hasn't been fired for a generation. Most, however, are sports pieces — rifles, shotguns and target pistols.

It isn't enough for a gun owner to be an expert in the handling of weapons. Or to see to it that every member of his family is coached in the danger of mishandled weapons. Because most of the time, however careful he may be in the field or at the target range, the guns are stored at home — often carelessly, often virtually forgotten. Family members who have repeatedly gone through the routine of unloading all guns before entering the house, will continue in safety for many years and then, unaccountably, someone forgets.

A gun is left loaded and cocked, to go off the first time it is jostled or dropped from the gun rack, a semi-automatic pistol is unloaded, by removing the clip and leaving one fatal bullet in the chamber, a loaded shotgun is left propped in a corner of a room — just temporarily until it can be cleaned, but long enough for a child to move the safety and touch the trigger with exploring young fingers.

Adults who consider themselves paragons of gun safety will — for one heedless moment — fail to foresee the impulses of a younger person. The fascination of guns goes deep, and the horrible finality of a gunshot usually has no more reality to a child than a gunshot on TV. And, the family discipline you may think you have achieved where guns are concerned has no effect on neighborhood playmates who come into your home.

1) Never keep a loaded gun in your house or anywhere on your property. 2) Keep guns out of reach of children, preferably locked up. If you use a gun rack or cabinet, there are locking devices available. And be careful where the key is kept. 3) Store all ammunition separately from the guns, also locked up and out of sight. 4) Never allow a gun to be brought into your house without first checking it yourself — magazine and chamber — to be sure it is unloaded.

Take care! We care.

ICE SKATING

at LAKE CARNEGIE

WHITE FLAGS FLY WHEN THE ICE IS SAFE —

Flag poles are located (1) atop the University Crew house, (2) on south side of lake between Washington Road and Harrison Street Bridges, (3) rear of West Hibben Apartments, (4) sailboat dock on Princeton-Kingston Road.

RED FLAGS FLY WHEN THE ICE IS UNSAFE — Call 921-9180 for ice skating conditions.

SAFE AREAS TO SKATE ON LAKE CARNEGIE (when white flags fly) —

- Between Washington Road Bridge and Harrison Street Bridge.

- In front of the sailboat dock on Princeton-Kingston Road.
- In front of the University crew house and Hibben Apartments, west of the Washington Road Bridge.

ICE ON THE DELAWARE-HARTMAN CANAL IS NEVER, NEVER SAFE!

NIGHT SKATING: Flood lights are on from 1:30 to 11 p.m., when the ice is safe, at two locations only: in front of the sailboat dock and in front of the University crew house.

ICE RESCUE BUOYS

Life buoys are located on red posts at strategic intervals along Lake Carnegie. The buoys are equipped with 60 feet of rope.

In an emergency, take the buoy, along with the attached rope, off the post. Do not attempt to get close to the person in the water.

Hold the buoy in one hand and throw it directly along your side from back to front in pendulum fashion. (Do not sail the buoy out like a discus.)

While holding the rope in your other hand, allow the rope to feed out with the thrown buoy. Throw the buoy over and beyond the person in the water.

If you miss, quickly loop the rope in and throw the buoy again.

After the person has taken hold of the buoy, pull gently and firmly. If you pull too hard or too fast, you may pull the buoy out of the victim's hand.

SKATERS' CHECK LIST

Never skate alone. And skate only in areas designated safe.

Red flags are placed in areas where the ice is thin. These areas are dangerous. Report all unsafe spots to the Princeton Township police.

Do not skate under the bridges. This area is the last to freeze.

Notice, before you go on the ice, where the life buoys are located. Every second counts in an ice rescue.

OUTDATED FIRST AID

Are you keeping up to date? Red Cross officials point out the following:

CUTS: A careful washing with gauze dipped in soap and water is recommended; Iodine and other germ-killers should not be applied because they can kill tissue and retard healing.

BURNS: Never apply butter or other household grease. For a minor burn, apply cold running water or a cloth dipped in cold water until the pain stops. For a serious burn, when the skin is broken, apply a dry sterile dressing, held in place by a bandage.

with a ten strike for the Lions. The team is not likely to be repeated.

Cornell Lacks Talent. It has been 15 years since Cornell last won an Ivy title in basketball and more than years appear ahead. The Ithacas are lacking in the Ivy talent race which Penn, Princeton, Dartmouth and now Harvard are waging with marked success. A 6-5 senior, Bill Schwarzkopf, averaging 18 points for the Red, but the other four starters offer no great threat. A 10-point last month, it was 79-58, Princeton.

HUSTLE LACKING

As Tiger Quintet Splits. It takes a little doing to lose to a team you have beaten 91-68 a week earlier, but this is the formula that turned the trick for Princeton at New Haven: • Shoot 33% — as opposed to 49% the week before. While the outcome is in doubt during the second half, shoot a frigid 26%.

• Commit half again as many personal fouls as your opponent — 21 to 14 — and then make only 10 free throws compared to the other guys' 21.

• Let the opposition out-rebound you, 52 to 36, thanks in considerable degree to the efforts of a 5-10 guard. (The Elis' Jim Morgan.)

In trouble from the outset, Princeton trailed by as much as eight during the first half, closed the gap to 31-27 at the intermission and then took a very short-lived lead (45-44) during the final period. Yale regained the advantage quickly, slowing down action in the closing minutes after moving out to a seven-point lead.

Morgan, who had been given all sorts of trouble in games this season, and last by the Tigers, collected 24 — just six short of the combined total for Petrie (17) and Hummer (13). When the latter could do no better, his career total stood at 599, so that the first point he scores against Cornell Friday will make him the ninth member of Princeton's 1000-point club. Petrie joined the group early last month.

Trouble at Brown, Too. Those who saw Brown's off-court quintet barely make it into double figures in the first half in Jadwin Gym 10 days ago will have difficulty believing that at Providence, the Bruins outscored Princeton at one stretch in the second period, 13 to 4. It's true, though, as is the fact that Hummer and Petrie between them combined for just 17 points — 10 of them by Hummer.

Brown was only 6 back at the half (33-27) and Princeton added only 26 points in the final round. Siedler was high with 17 as the Tigers main-

WRESTLERS WIN ANOTHER

Two Ivy Meets Left. A one-sided victory over Harvard in Jadwin Gymnasium Saturday afternoon kept Princeton's wrestling team undefeated in the Ivy League. Following the mid-week match with powerful Lehigh, the Tigers head for New Haven this weekend and will then finish their dual meet season here on March 7 against Cornell.

The Crimson won the first four 118-lb. class in which Princeton has had a season-long problem finding a wrestler with adequate experience. However, Steve Garner pinned his opponent in the 126-lb. match and the veteran Al Ureda added a highly valuable decision when he bested the Harvard captain. That gave Coach Johnny Johnston's mat men an 8-3 lead and they were never in trouble thereafter, winning 25 to 8.

The visitors gained a draw in the 142-lb. bout and won the only other decision at 167 lbs. they have so often this year. All the three final bouts came Princeton's way as the home team ran up a 27-5 margin in points. • Emil DelZera, the Tigers' representative at 191 pounds, was undefeated at his first ten meets this season. A guard on the football team, he was les in the winter and is a member of the track team in the spring to rank as the only three sport athlete currently in Princeton.

REFEREES DOMINATE

As Tiger SA Trims Yale. Calling 36 penalties, including two which resulted in disqualifications, the officials handling the Yale-Princeton hockey game Saturday frequently took almost total charge of the action. While they were in control, the referees called one of them. • Giles Thredgold had a tendency to put a man in the box for little more than his desire of contact normally found worthy of a foul in basketball.

On three occasions, for example, Princeton drew three penalties in less than two minutes, with the sin in looking as if it were the victim of the population explosion. Yale had two men off the ice twice, and just before the end, one player

DeZera went off for using the flat end of his stick on Gill and the Princeton defenseman getting sacked for using his fists to react his concern over such treatment.

Interestingly, the Tiger defense, which has had season-long problems, rose to the occasion while it was two men short and kept Yale from scoring high times. On the other hand, the first two Princeton

were a man down, and later on the home team scored an other while the Blue had been off the ice.

It was, all in all, an afternoon of some satisfaction for the team and the faithful Rink Rat, who have turned out in sizeable numbers all winter
despite the 2151 mark the Orange and Black took to the game. The victory ended a seven-time losing streak and offset the 9-3 loss Princeton suffered at New Haven a week earlier. Among other things, it was the 11th time in the last 12 years that Yale has lost a hockey game here.

The Tigers led, 1-0, at the end of the first period and 3-1
after two. They moved out to a 5-1 margin midway through the final round but could not stand stale that much longer,
eventually winning, 5 to 3.
Sophomore boxer Kyle got
two of the visitors' knuts, Jon
Wright, Art Schmon and Jim Fittermore providing the others. Coach Bill Quackenbush started on all sophomore line
of Schmon at center, Kyle and John Hepburn on the wings,
and with a satisfactory fresh man team which has some defensive strength coming up
next year should be bright.

Before it arrives, the Tigers have three more contests on the schedule, following this Wednesday's game with Penn.
They'll be at Hanover for a return game with Dartmouth's Saturday, travel north again to play Harvard next Wednesday and then finish with Cornell here on March 7. They began the week with an outside chance of finishing out of the regular, depending on Yale's fortunes in the final 10 days
of play.

Victories over Harvard and Cornell are about a mile long.
In January, the Tigers lost to Dartmouth here in overtime,
3-2, and since then the Indians have improved. Last week
they led Cornell, 2-1, after two periods before losing, 3-2,
for the Indians' narrowest escape in riding to a 20-0 record.

NISAA FIRST ROUND
PIS vs. Cherry Hill West. In the first round of play in the post season, New Jersey Internet Athletic Association's state basketball championship tournament, Princeton
High School has drawn Cherry Hill West.

PIS coach Larry Ivan reported Monday that the schedule had not yet been informed of the date or site of the game.
"Probably it will be March 23-24," said Ivan. If it is the 24th, then Tuesday's scheduled finale with Hopewell Valley will have to be rescheduled, he said.

"I haven't seen them play
yet," said Ivan, "but they can't have lost too many, otherwise they wouldn't be in the tournament. All I know is that they are expected to be about the same size as us and they play a man-to-man defense."

Ivan reports there has been a lot of interest in the game already. This season is the first time that the Little Tigers have earned a berth in the tourney
in a number of years. Should they get by Cherry Hill in the opening round, the competition
will escalate sharply.

Other opening contests in the bracket in which PIS finds itself include Steinert vs. Mill-ville and Trenton vs. Hamilton. Being, lost in Mercer County, drew an opening round
bye. "That's a mighty tough
bracket to be in," commented Ivan.

Season finale Tuesday. The Little Tigers are scheduled to play Lawrenceville against Cranford their season's final game
Tuesday evening at Hopewell Valley High School in Penn. Her-shire. All eight teams will oppose, the team which opened their season when they recorded a 55-52 victory.

For the result of a Tuesday's rematch against Easton on the ice, the only in the only in the Blue Devils' court see page 31.

Now to Hamilton again. Friday is its first home appearance of the season, PIS bowing, 7-1, and Beacon Hill 9-0.

Seeking revenge for an earlier 7-0 defeat by PIS, Lawrenceville came out flying and caught the Panthers by surprise.

ed to Hamilton for the second game this season, 66-55. The team narrowed the record exceeded by the Little Tigers to 11 wins, 3 defeats.

Despite the loss, Ivan was not unhappy with his team's play, as he was when Hamilton earlier had run PIS off the court, 76-20. "We've been down
the last seven games," Ivan
said. "But we're back now.
We've snapped out of it; we've started to move again which I'm very happy to see."

"The score was no indication of the game. It seldom is,"
Ivan observed.

With 2:38 to go, PIS managed to pull within five. But then Hamilton started a parade
to the final line where it won the game, outscoring PIS 33-21.

Three of Princeton's starters fouled out with four minutes
to play. Jeff Haring, Bobby Sweeney and Walt Taylor.
That's 15 fouls right there,"
said Ivan. In addition, Tim Togstad, another starter, had to retire after he received a week on the bench when he was driven against a wall, driving in for a layup. So in the cla-matic final minutes, Ivan had to go with a team comprised of 80% bench.

On the plus side, Ivan reported, "We stayed after the break completely — if we had played this way we would have strapped Steinert last week."
Outraged, 46-16, by Hamilton in their first meeting, PIS enjoyed a 28-25 edge over the Hornets in Friday's rematch. Also, the game marked the return to form of Paul Riddick who scored 21 points to lead PIS in that department, puffed down 12 rebounds and had two assists. "He played his best game in a long time,"
said Ivan.

Jeff Haring, turning in "a whole of a game" contributed 13 points. "Everyone played a nice game," continued Ivan,
"on down the bench. There was no sign of any weakness whatsoever."

At Wissahickon, The Prince-

will have a fine opportunity to earn an excellent season ad-

Eight teams will meet in preliminary contests Friday afternoon on their own rinks, with Princeton Day set to meet Princeton High School at the PIS rink. It will be the second game in three days for the two squads, which were scheduled to play Wednesday afternoon
at PIS in a regular season game.

Other preliminary contests

Sam Rodgers found the mark twice, on assists from Fred Schuller, and Schuller failed, assisted by Sam Rodgers.

That raised the score to 6-1, and Art Mitsunishi got the final tally when he slapped in the rebound of a shot by Robbie Holt.

Last Wednesday, Schuller scored a hat trick as the Panthers started an easy win over Beacon Hill. Chris Reeve got the rebound. The two victories raised the Panthers' mark to 12-3. After the tournament Princeton Day will have one final game remaining, against Washington on Wednesday, March 4, at home.

MONTECLAIR NEXT

For PDS basketball team. Hoping its second victory won't take as long to achieve as its first, the Princeton Day basketball team will meet Montclair Academy at 4 p.m. Thursday at home.

With the victory over Academy of New Church last week, the Panthers broke an eleven game losing streak, and now hope to make Montclair their second victim. The two teams appear to be fairly evenly matched.

Saturday, the Blue and White will be a definite underdog, in a common situation this winter, when it takes on Perkiomen at 2 p.m. away. While Perkiomen is not in a class with Germantown Friends, George or Hun, it will be a heavy favorite on its own court against PDS. On Monday, PDS will go against Moorestown, away, in a game that was originally scheduled for January 7, but postponed because of snow. At first reluctant to reschedule the contest, when Moorestown found it was able to beat PDS in the Panther's gym a month later, it found an open date. However, PDS coach Chan Jones feels his team, which played without Steve Bush the first time against Moorestown and lost 49-40, has a good chance of coming away with a win.

The Panthers also have a strong chance in their final contest of the season, Wednesday, March 4, against Friends Central. In the first meeting the Panthers lost 37-51 on their own court, but blew a 13-point lead in the process.

YTF SOLICITS FUNDS

To Double Scholarships. The Youth Tennis Foundation of Princeton, formed last year, plans to continue its program of scholarships for students interested in tennis. The goal for 1970 is to double the number of scholarships and encourage third and fourth graders to enroll.

Contributions from the community last summer resulted in 63 scholarships complete with instruction, rackets, balls and workbooks. In addition the Foundation underwrote equipment for any child who participated in the free clinics.

The foundation has the form of a membership corporation which requires an annual contribution of $10. Tax-deductible Contributions may be sent to Youth Tennis Foundation, c/o L. V. Silverstein, Jr., Princeton Bank & Trust.

In Net Tournament Here. Princeton University sophomore Bill Colson of Coral Gables, Fla., won the first annual Invitational Intercollegiate Indoor Tennis Tournament held last week in Jadwin Gymnasium when he defeated John Adams of Penn. 97, 46, 62.

Colson, ranked fourth nationally in the 18 and under class and a member of the U.S. Junior Davis Cup squad, was the number two seed in the tournament.

Colson then teamed with Princeton senior Richard Howell, the number six player on the Tiger team last year, to win the doubles final. They defeated Norman Holmes and Dan Birchmore of Georgia, 6-4, 6-3. Birchmore, seeded number one, was upset by Adams in the semi-finals.

Eleven colleges participated in the first event. Among them Princeton, Penn. Columbia and Yale from the Ivies, and Clemson, and the universities of Georgia, Maryland and Virginia from the South.

Conroy reported that he was so pleased with the response to the initial tournament that it will become an annual event. He promised that next year's word be much bigger.

Massage Has Four New Hands

A 37-year old Princeton bust pass has, quite literally, changed hands.

Otto and Elina Heiden, who opened their Swedish Massage studio in Princeton in the winter of 1933, have sold their business to Karl and Rosa Maria Allgayer.

BUSINESS In Princeton

The Allgayers will live, as the Heidens have done for most of those 37 years, in the Studio at 130 Nassau Street.

Like Otto Heiden, Karl Allgayer is Austrian. Unlike Elina Heiden, who is Swedish-Finnish, Rosa Maria is Spanish, dark-eyed senora from Barce-lona.

"Swedish massage, you know, is all done by the hands, without artificial aids like vibrators or wooden rollers," Mr. Allgayer points out.

He received his initial training in a physical fitness center in Linz on the Danube, in Austria, a center equipped with pneumatic massage facilities and so on.

The Chuske Touch, but he led the center to spend two years in Stockholm, training in the classic Swedish massage and the use of the hand. His wife, Rosa Maria, was trained in Borlöv, and the two have worked together in both Sweden and Germany.

From Sweden, Mr. Allgayer went to Germany to teach physical fitness in the Hannover (West Germany) University. Then he came to the United States.

Mrs. Allgayer is shy about her English, and Mr. Allgayer explains what it's all about.

"We will continue to appreciate, as the Heidens have, in Swedish massage for relaxation — not for medical treatment, of course," Mr. Allgayer emphasizes.

"Massage manipulates muscles against muscles in such a way that one achieves a complete relaxation."

Weight reduction? Mr. Allgayer smiles, "The only way to lose 10 or 20 pounds is to push yourself away from the dinner table! Hot massage can reduce the weight, around hips or thighs, for example."

In a new departure for this long time Nassau Street business, the Allgayers will open the Studio evenings off Saturdays, by appointment.

The actual changing of hands for an undisclosed price took place earlier in February. Mr. and Mrs. Heiden have remained to offer advice and information about Princeton, but the Allgayers plan to move here next week. The Heidens will live in Kingston.

211 ROLLED

By Pat Hooser. Mettler's Pat Hunker rolled a 211 game last week, high in the Princeton Women's Bowling League.

The 211 was a whopping 90 pins over her average.

Evelyn Sailer of Rocky & Sons fashioned a 204, while Sara Rose of Rocky & Sons had 180-178. Others: Lorraine Zarosa, 179; Laura Bell, 173; and Marilyn Salvester, 165.

Mrs. Salvester also converted the 3-8 10, 6-7 10 and 3-10 splits.

Mettler claimed the high game of 861. Rocky & Sons the high team series of 2338.

Rocky & Sons has captured first place in the standing with 30 points. Rocky's (26) and Pin Pals and Swift's Con-lin at dinner with 22 each fol-low.

BOWLING NOTES

Tom Sulerati Rolls 708. Something rarer than a pre-diction, a 700 series, was rolled by Tom Sulerati at the Princeton Recreation Lanes on Nassau Street — the first one in a couple of years, according to owner Dave Burroughs.

Tom Sulerati of Grover Lumber in the Nassau League, who hadn't had so much as a 600 series this season, engineered the first. He rolled three consecutive games of 232 241 235.

In the Tri-Country Firemen's League, Wally Brown of Princeton Junction, rolling a against first place Lawrenceville, had nine strikes in a row in his third game. He lost his chance for a 300 game in the tenth frame when he left the 6-7 10 split. He converted two pins for a 265. His other two games of 199 187 gave him a 631 series.

Elsewhere in the Firemen's League, Gigh Ireland of Rocky Hill rolled a 625 series on games of 191 221 213. George Lack had 223, and Bill Davalli, 210. Between 204 and 200 were Bud Reading, John Willis, Jack Perrine, George Pierre and Leslie Ladd.

Lawrenceville leads No. 14 for top honors, 22-20, while four teams are tied at 18 all. They are No. 3, Rocky Hill, Kingston and No. 1.

In the Nassau League, there were 23 games at 200 or above, in addition to Sulerati's three. Rolling a pair were Ben De Vito, 222 211; Jerry Perpetua, 202 208; and Fred Goetz, 201 207. Charles Perpetua Sr. of Howe Insurance had 222, while Ed Duncan Sr., a teammate of Sulerati's, rolled 221. Jim Fosse had 218.

Between 214 and 200 were Eric Hunt, Kevin Delaney, Alex Drummond, Don Shinn, Sam Procaacini, George Pi-erre, Ed Rowatcov, Albert Petrelli, Camilla Priore, Sam Toesi, John Baldino, Mike Pinelli and Lou Sineak.

Tiger Garage has 34 points and the lead. Trailing are Hill Climbers and Kingston Wine and Liquor, 30 each, and P&S Local 380 and Italian-American Sportsmen Club, 28 each.

In the A League, Trap Rock's Larry Melouch went from a pair of 187s to a final game 219 for a 623 series. Les Gibbs of first place Princeton Inn rolled 223 227 230 — 611.

and Harry Rahny of second place Amiers had 219 202 182 — 603.

Bud Fowler and Bill Penelli rolled 233 and 227 respectively. Others: John Balesmerer, 216; Tom Sulerati, 211 201; Mike Penelli, 211; Wes Casaley and Joe Proaccini, 209s; Bill Parke, 206; Carmen Stefanello, 202 and Jack O'Neil and Claude Pinelli, 201s.

SALES UP, NEW PACE
 At Applied Data Research, computer software and service sales are up, and the company has reported a preliminary unaudited figures indicate that 1969 sales would significantly exceed 1968 sales, while net earnings would be substantially less.

The earnings reduction is attributable in large part to increased operating expenses relating to technical and marketing expansion for the development and sale of existing and new products, the pooling of interest of Programmatic, Inc. with Applied Data Research and an airplane crash on November 14, which resulted in a fire at Applied Data Research's Princeton office.

Peter Ferrara had a 169.

In the Women's Business League, it was a banner week as well for Mary Bartolino of first-place Carousel, who rolled 205 - 80 pins over her average and her first 200 game over the league. Greg King had 181 and Peter Thompson 156. All roll for Hi-Lo's which tied for second place, 10, with Taps. King Pins is first with 12.

Carol Lisi was a consistent 175-179 181, while Carol Harris had 191 and Diane Fowler 164-182. In the standings, Carousel has a 19-18 edge over Rocky Hill Inn. Three others are tied at 16-11.

FRESHMAN FIVE NOW 16-4
 Final Game Saturday. The opportunity to become Princeton's first freshman basketball team in 14 years to complete the season undefeated. Facing the Class of 1973 as it heads into its final game of the season. The young Tigers take on Columbia Saturday night at 6 in Jadwin Gym.

What was considered their first hurdle was easily topped Tuesday night when Coach Art Hyland's quintet paced past Penn, 87 to 58. The game was watched by a crowd of more than 2,000, a larger number of fans than Bill Bradley drew in his first year in D-Ivan Gym.

A slow start by the freshmen

found them training, 12-4, after five minutes, but Ted Manakas and then Brian Taylor paced a rally that gave them a 40-23 lead at the half. The two top scorers on the team contributed 34 points between them in the first 20 minutes.

An exhibition of plain and fancy shooting kept the crowd in high spirits during the final round, as Taylor finished with 31 and Manakas with 26. The loss was the first in eight games for the visiting Quakers.

EWING TRIUMPHS, 78-19

Thrashes PHS to Go 20-2. A combined effort over Princeton High School Tuesday night gave Ewing High's top-rated Mercer County quintet a 20 and 2 record. The final score was 78-19, after the Blue Devils led at the half, 46-22.

Jeff Hanning with 18 and Paul Riddick with 10 paced the losers, now 11-10. The Princeton High quintet will play its opening round in the post-season tournament Monday night at 8 on the Burlington City court near Camden. Cherry Hill West will be the opponent.

DISTRICT MATCHES NEXT

PHS Tops Notre Dame. Fresh off its 94-4 victory over Notre Dame here Monday in its final dual meet of the season, the Princeton High School wrestling team will turn next to the district matches.

The first round for Central Jersey schools will be held at Hunterdon Central in Flemington Friday night and also Saturday. Coach Tom Murray reported that he will enter a full team.

Against the Irish, PHS did not lose a single match. The visitors gained their four points when Lawrence Parker, 178-pounder for PHS, and Chris Cascard, 136-pounder, were held to draws. Murray reported that Parker wrestled an exceptionally fine bout inasmuch as his opponent had been unbeaten entering the match. John Cushman, wrestling up a weight at 141, and heavyweight Louie Rossi scored pins for the Little Tigers. Rossi

Roundball Rematch

A rematch between the Princeton Borough and Township basketball teams will be one of three games in the annual March 10 Dimes Basketball Tournament next Friday evening, March 6, at the Notre Dame High School gym.

The Borough Township contest will start at 8 a.m. Last year, on the sharpshooting of Pat Robert Muccarelli, the Borough upset the taller Township quintet. In the opening game, East Windsor police will meet Lawrence Township police at 7. The final game at 9 p.m. will be Trenton men in blue against Hamilton Township. Tickets at $1 may be purchased from any officer or at the door.

sl. defeated only once this season, represents Princeton's best chance of advancing to the regional matches.

PHS ended its season with an 8-4 mark; last season it was 10-6. The difference was a tougher schedule. Two newcomers this year, Livingston and Cedar Ridge, both scored lopsided victories over the Little Tigers.

Murray placed them in a class with Hunterdon. "Both have fine teams," he said. "We learned a lot, and we intend to keep them on the schedule. Overall, he concluded, "I'm not disappointed. Sure, you'd always like to win them all, but the competition was tougher than ever before. I think the boys did a good job."

SHOWDOWN FRIDAY

It was a busy, and successful week for the Hun School basketball team last week, but Hun's three Penn-Jersey League victories won't mean a thing unless it defeats George School in its season's finale Friday.

At that, the most a win will do for Hun is to earn a tie with George for first place in the prep school division of the league. In their first meeting earlier in the season, George School defeated Hun here in convincing fashion.

Should Hun upset George in the game will be played in Newtown, Pa., starting at 3:35 p.m. The game will have a third time to determine which would meet German town Friends, winner of the day school division in the playoff for the league championship.

That is a dubious reward because Germantown defeated both Hun and George School easily this year. Its meeting with George School, rated a loss, ended in a 102-69 rout for the Quakers.

Prep School Tourney. In an addition, Hun was scheduled this Wednesday to play in the first round of the Class A North Prep School state championship tournament against Lawrenceville. The contest was scheduled for the Princeton School gym 2:30-4:30 p.m.

Hun kept its chances alive by defeating a stubborn Princeton School team here Mon-

Ivy vs. Calvio Murphy

Niagara (19-1) and high-scoring Calvin Murphy will play the Ivy League championship in a first-round NC-AA Tournament at basketball game here Saturday afternoon, March 7. The exact starting time in Jadwin Gym has not yet been announced, nor has television been confirmed.

Niagara's probable opponent will be Penn, which is heavily favored to defeat Columbia at the Paley Center Friday night. The Quakers, 23-1 and 16 straight, are not seventh-ranked nationally.

In the event that Columbia was not then defeated by Princeton at Ivy League playoff will be staged in Jadwin Gym at 8 o'clock next Tuesday.

day, 79-68.

Ahead by only 57-51 after three periods, Hun broke the game open with a 22-11 surge in the final period to hand the Red Raiders their ninth loss against nine victories. Hun is 13-6.

Mike Maguire displayed early season form by pouring in 20 points for a while Mike Rossi added 21 Dirk White had 11.

Bob Young's 18 paced the losers. Tied with 11 each were Frank Andrews, former Princeton Day School player, and Rich Salvi.

Saturday at Bryn Athyn, Pa., Hun led Academy of New Church from the start on its way to a 72-55 triumph. Maguire hit for a game high 29, and Rossi and Rich Zoeller combined for 25 more. Zoeller netting 13.

HAC DROPS SECOND

In S. Brunswick League, The Harrison Athletic Club dropped a 60-54 decision to Budweiser Monday night in the South Brunswick Industrial Basketball League, its second loss in the final four of the season.

John Smith scored 15 points to lead the HAC offense. Tony Boevanfield had 15. In other league action, the Quakers' Ivy owned Kendall Park HAC net plays Steve Rosoff and Smith at 73-61 in a game at the South Brunswick High gym.

orchestra's assistant conductor, Henry Mazer, decided on the Mendelssohn Violin Concerto, which Edwin Posenmann also soloist.

Practice Session. "This was the first time adult and orchestra had played together, and we couldn't find any spot where they could rehearse no rooms available in any hotel."

Princeton played it with a charming mule, "they came to my apartment, Mr. Mazer sang the score and Mrs. Posenmann played it on her violin and I got a free concert. That's one of the nice little bonuses of my job."

Welcome, Igor. One of her warmest recollections of 1967, when the composer appeared in Princeton to conduct his Requiem Canticles.

"We had to make up an orchestra and find a chorus and we had to do it all together in only five weeks! I got a man in New York who assembled professional musicians, and we already had the Thayer College Choir, but this office was a complete laminate asylum!"

Dinner and reception afterwards. And of course, Stravinsky in his last days, he expected he would take quick by after the concert and want to leave. But he stayed until I — he said he was having such a good time!"

And Mrs. Pollock, of course, was having a good time, too. "Princeton and my job have been wonderful to me — I sometimes feel as though someone had led me here, on an invisible string."

Locatelli, Mr. Hamanyi selected precision and clarity. And he brought to the work a vital suggestion that the composer was itching to burst out of his Baroque bonds into the coming world of Romanticism.

Next night Arno Sofran's "Tea for Strings" was enthusiastically received.

Mr. Sofran, a member of the music faculty at Trenton State College, was motivated by the cruel and shocking assassinations of Martin Luther King and Robert Kennedy in 1968, and has composed a work which reflects the complexity of our times. Although he assures us that he has not attempted to break any stylistic or harmonic barriers, in his "Tea for Strings" Mr. Sofran has used the old tools of composition in a fresh and original way.

Skill Is Apparent. Mr. Sofran is well known here for his songs and works for solo instruments, and it was good to hear that he is a composer who can work with equal effectiveness in larger forms. His skill was apparent in the way he wove his melodic materials against a shifting rhythmic background.

He was able, somehow, to combine elements of lyricism and dramatic statement; in a sense of vigor and perkiness with expressiveness; and he was inventive in the way he achieved, at times, a shimmering beauty perched atop a poignant and biting dissonance. He was master of his commission, and was fortunate to have such a fine first reading of his new work.

A little-known Recitative and Aria for Tenor, String Orchestra and Bass Continuo, "Preis der Torkunst" (Praise of Harmony), by Handel featured the American tenor, Seth McCoy. Mr. McCoy is a superior musician and is blessed with a fine-textured, masculine sounding tenor voice.

He made the difficult aria sound easy, and was consistent from beginning to end in maintaining a sensible Baroque style. He came into his own, however, in the "Serenade for Tenor, Horn and Strings" by Benjamin Britten.

"Exactness and Assurance." One almost forgot that this work was originally written for and premiered by the English tenor, Peter Pears, for Mr. McCoy's interpretative powers were unshaken throughout a golden voice, full of exactness and assurance. He sings accurately, easily and with artistic perfection.

His performance of the Britten work was moving, dramatic, subtle and tasteful. One must not neglect to praise the horn player in this performance, Ralph Froelich.

For he caught Britten's music by its own magic. Musicians in the audience were the more impressed with his artistry when he played the "Prologue" and "Epilogue" on a valved horn.

The concert ended with Five Old French Dances written by the early 18th century Parisian, Marin Marais, brought "up to century" through the orchestration of Carlton Cooley.

tiful trees, this house has many special construction features. Over-occupied from the beginning, it is beautifully maintained and so nice to look at that, once you see it, you'll look no further! Deep basem-
